

SILVER HILLS MAKES ITS DISCOVERY ON 200

Probably the Greatest High Grade Development in Recent Years Is Reported By the Mine Managers. Ore Broken Into Yesterday Averages $141.36, With a 4-Inch Streak Going About 50 Per Cent Silver.

The Bonanza received the first reports of the new developments at the Silver Hills mine at Tule Canyon, formerly owned by Sheriff W. A. Ingalls, when a party of Tonopah and Goldfield people returned from the mine after an inspection of the entire property.

That the impressions of the visitors were correct was confirmed this morning when Harry Stimler received word from Lacy Jones, his mill superintendent, that the short drift to the west on the 200-foot level had broken into the ore after an 8-foot advance and the first assays ran $183.80. The entire drift, extending a rich streak on the wall of the vein, next to the red mud slip, averaged this morning $141.36, and the report stated that the high-grade streak was between 50 and 60 per cent silver. This would mean that each ton of ore mined from the streak itself would contain at least 12,000 ounces of silver.

Mr. Stimler immediately communicated the important news of the discovery of the Ingalls vein at the 200-foot level to his associates, Edward A. Clark, one of the biggest bankers in Boston, Massachusetts, and William J. Loring, identified with some of the most prominent mining enterprises of California, and Hayden, Stone & Co., of New York.

Mr. Loring and the eastern financiers promised that upon proving by theory to be correct that the downward extension of the Ingalls vein would be developed on the 200-foot level—that they would have the stock listed immediately on the New York and other eastern markets, and would assure additional capital to develop the mine at still greater depth.

The actual development of the ore on its rake to the east down to the 200-foot level, with values greater than they were when Mr. Ingalls made his shipments, will undoubtedly bring millions of dollars into the leading mine and a great amount of capital for the development of adjoining properties, one of which is reported to have a true fissure vein of immense width and carrying free gold in more than milling values.

The Silver Hills stock, largely because of the favorable reports made on the mine by reliable mining men, and strengthened because of the glowing accounts published in The Bonanza on Monday, has been one of the most attractive during the past two weeks, and its steady rise to 41 cents per share has been attributed to the confidence held in Mr. Stimler, who was one of the original discoverers of Goldfield, as much as to the favorable developments on the 200-foot level.

With the backing of Edward A. Clark, Hayden, Stone & Co. and William J. Loring, men on the street who watch mining developments closely say that the stock should rapidly soar to the dollar mark, and when the mill is started, which will be as soon as the new agitator tanks are received and installed, it should be the first 1921 mine in the state to start and sustain a prolonged mining boom for southern Nevada.

MODERN WOMEN APE PERUVIANS

BERKELEY, Cal., March 16.—Modern women are aping ancient Peruvians in their change of hair styles, Paul L. Faye, associate curator of the anthropology museum of the University of California, declared recently.

"Some years ago," Professor Faye said, "women wore high pompadour, today they carefully muffle up their ears. These two lines of evolution may be detected in the fashion of head-dress and head-combings among the ancient Peruvians."

Alterations were made by the Peruvians in the successive generations, Mr. Faye explained, to make their heads look a little more attractive than in the natural state. A collection of the deformed Peruvian skulls was acquired recently by the museum.

Next Saturday and Sunday the Vernon club, 1920 champions of the Pacific Coast league, is scheduled to play the Chicago Cubs at Los Angeles. During the following week the major leaguers will take on the Portland, Seattle and Salt Lake Coast league teams.

March 25 the Cubs leave here for San Francisco and Sacramento to meet the San Francisco, Oakland and Sacramento coasters. On April 3 the Chicagoans leave San Francisco for the east. They open April 13 at Chicago against St. Louis.

FIND FRAGMENT OF MASTODON'S SKULL

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 16.—What is said by John A. Comstock, associate director of the Southwest museum here, to be a "fragment" of the fossilized skull of a "baby" mastodon, which lived more than 10,000 years ago, has been discovered in the Los Angeles river bed.

The weight of the fragment, which was found at the 50-foot level in pits of a gravel company, where seventh street crosses the river, is 50 pounds. One tooth was found in the fragment, Mr. Comstock said. The tooth, he added, evidently was a milk tooth, and would have been displaced later by a permanent one if the creature had lived.

In contrast to the relics of various prehistoric animals found in the Los Angeles river bed, where they were preserved as bones in asphaltum for what scientists say was hundreds of thousands of years, the skull fragment is a fossil.
